The U.S. 2020 election is ramping up. The new ALMO administration in Mexico is settling in and the United States-Mexico-Canada Agreement still needs to be ratified in all three countries. What does this mean for trade across the continent?

It has been a captivating time in the world of trade and the North American Strategy for Competitiveness (NASCO) is doing its part to keep North America competitive. Join NASCO's President Tiffany Melvin for a conversation on these topics. Learn how NASCO's 2019 initiatives are helping North American businesses and organizations connect.
